Jenny's life was centered around her deep love for her children and the joy of spending time together as a family. Jenny had a fondness for English bulldogs, fashion, thrifting, buying gifts for her loved ones, and cherished moments of hugs and kisses. She found delight in watching TV shows like "Orange is the New Black," "Succession," "Dr. Pimple Popper," "Grey's Anatomy," "House MD," & "Better Call Saul," listening to Dolly Parton, Kenny Chesney, P!nk, Sia, Ambrosia, Michael Bolton, & anything she could enjoy alongside her children.

Jenny's proudest accomplishments were witnessing her daughter, Cassidy Turner, achieve her pharmacy technician certification, and her son, Samuel Turner, excel at college while singing with Schola Cantorum.

She chose to attend college late in life, going to NWACC in her forties. She was a dedicated homemaker who took great pride in teaching her children.

Jenny is survived by the love of her life, William 'Willy' Turner; her daughter, Cassidy; her son, Samuel; and her son-in-law, William Noyes. She leaves behind her older sister, Victoria White; great-aunt, Joan Breland; and cousin, Blue "Bubba" Breland; in Mississippi, who were all cherished members of her close-knit family.

She was preceded in death by her beautiful and loving mother, Carolyn Breland O'Neal; her beloved father Rufus Ed O'Neal; and her infant son, Dylan Kent Turner.

Known for her stubbornness and sharp sense of humor, Jenny always had an ear to lend and a keen observation to share. Her impact on the lives of others was marked by her teachings of love and care. Jenny described herself as a God-fearing woman who unwaveringly believed in God, even through the challenging circumstances she faced.
