“ You went too soon, this life isn't the same. I should have been a better son. I love and miss you dad. I'll see you again and we can survey heaven and play a eternal game of dungeons and dragons. In your name and faith I'll never stop seeking the light. Tell J.C. we need him more then ever. Your granddaughter is 18 now, she misses you so much. I love you Dad, forever and always. Maybe we'll reincarnate again but I feel you've become one with our creator and one with the source. I'll always keep you in my heart. In your name and the lord's. I love you

“ Loosing you is like loosing my dad all over again. I miss you so much. I miss the stories you would tell me about my dad. I miss your hugs, I miss messaging you just to check in. I love you. My heart is so broken, you were my cousin, but also like a dad. I cry every time I see your picture or every time I see something that reminds me of you. I know you are at peace. Please watch over me. I love you.

“ I'm so sorry that Rodney had this terrible accident, and will be greatly missed. I'm sure God has some plans for him and who knows he might need a portion of Heaven surveyed. If that's the case I know he's experienced and ready for the job. His backsight is set on earth and his foresight on Heaven! I'm glad that Rodney had come by my house a few weeks ago for a chat and we were supposed to meet for lunch soon to discuss exciting surveying events. I enjoyed working with Rodney at Crafton Tull for a few years in the survey department and our continued friendship. He was a great guy and he never met a stranger. He will be missed by many. May God bless you Rodney on this next journey!

“ I knew Rodney through his wife Cindy who I've known since 7th grade but she was a family first with Rodney. He made me a beautiful necklace that I will cherish forever and I know that my dear friend has suffered a blow and she dedicated her life taking care of Rodney and her kids & Grandkids and he dedicated his right back. I pray for God to comfort Cindy in the future as she develops a new normal. Rodney will be MISSED!
